

January 15, 2007

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing today on behalf of Dr. Michelle May. Dr. May has been a highly sought after presenter within the American Academy of Family Physicians membership organization.

As a program developer and meeting planner, I am very familiar with Dr. May's electric and captivating presentation style. She is a gifted presenter in addition to her vast expertise and background. Dr. May consistently receives a rating of 4.5 or greater (using a 5.0 scale) for her live presentations and interactive media presentations. Anecdotal comments such as "This speaker changed my whole perspective on weight management," "This speaker has stirred the educator in me again," and "This speaker shared simple and practical strategies to help my patients that I never received in residency," have continued to keep her in high demand.

The combination of her attention to detail, effectiveness, impact, preparation and follow-up are all aspects that would be important to those organizations seeking to hire her for her expertise.

It is my pleasure and privilege to recommend Dr. May for organizations needing an engaging and motivating keynote and workshop presenter.

Sincerely,

Sarah McMullen, MEd, CHES
American Academy of Family Physicians
Public Health Initiatives Manager